Poetry.

Sweetheart.

BY D. W. BROWNELL.

When, first, thy winning grace I found;
When, after, grace with love was crowned;
When, later, love was marriage-bound;
I was all thine, Sweetheart.

By all the joys that love has grown;
By all the comforts home has shown;
By all the happiness we've known;
I am all thine, Sweetheart.

While love shall be our daily sun;
While hand in hand our work is done;
While life shall hold us still as one;
I'll be all thine, Sweetheart.

Selected Story.

The Odd Glove.

"It is a dear little thing, anyhow, Ned."

"How much longer are you going to stand there and sentimentalize over it, Bob? Fling it away and come along."

"Fling it away? I shall keep that glove till I find its owner," Bob Flint replied; folding the little fresh lilac kid glove gently, and putting it in his vest pocket.

"And when you do find her what will you do?"

"I pledge you my word to ask her for the hand that wore it."

"A rash vow, my prince; you may not be pleased with your Cinderrella when you find her."

"Thanks for your suggestions; I will follow the prince's example and search everywhere till I find her, feeling sure that she is the one incomparable woman Fate has allotted to me?"

"Only don't get taken in by some spurious article, as the prince very nearly did when the two wicked and ambitious sisters of the adorable Cinderrella cut off their toes and their heels that their feet might fit into the slipper."

"I heed your warning, my good fellow, and shall keep my eyes wide open."

Bob Flint and Ned Durand were spending a week in the dog-days together in the country; Ned enjoying a vacation from the office, and Bob, whose whole life was a perpetual vacation, killing time as best he could. Here, in a little country place, of a bright, beautiful Sunday morning, when there was nothing to rouse one from dreaming but the sound of the church bells and the song of the birds, Bob Flint had found, in a turf of green moss beside a little brook a dainty lilac kid glove, and on that slight foundation he had built a romance of which he was the hero.

He was young, good-looking, idle and rich. Therefore he was free to indulge in romance. He was resolved to marry when he found some one to suit his fastidious taste. Now he pictures to himself what the owner of that glove may be. She is a blonde, he thinks, blue-eyed: with slender, blue-veined hands, and wavy golden hair.

He wonders if he shall have much trouble to find her, but rather thinks not, for the population of Wilton is small.

He did not find her there though, so he abandoned the search for a time, still keeping the little glove, as one would a talisman.

Bob Flint was inclined to take the world easy. The result was that seven years later he looked scarcely a day older than when we first made his acquaintance that lovely Sunday morning by the brook. His friend Ned Durand, now the sober head of a family, invited him to pay him a visit at his house in the country. Having nothing else to do, Bob accepted, and was cordially invited into the family circle.

"I declare, Ned, this looks quite patriarchal. Why, under the sun, didn't I get married when you did?"

"I really don't know, except that you did not find that Cinderella you were looking for—the owner of the odd glone. Still, it is never too late to mend; and, in spite of your advanced years, I think you might try a matrimonial engagement on your own account, instead of standing there envying me my good luck."

"Don't think I envy you; but really it does look very cosy."

"I believe I forgot to tell you, Bob, that my wife expects some company this evening, so if there are any little alteration to be made in your toilet, you haven't much time to spare."

"Will there be any nice girls here?"

"A whole lot of them. All of them."

"All of them nice. Particularly agreeable to rich young men."

"I want you to make me a promise, Ned. Don't let them know I'm worth anything. I want to see if I ever can make any one care for me for what I am in myself."

"You haven't outlived your romantic notions yet, I see."

"Promise me this?"

"Promise."

An hour later Rob Flint entered a parlor that was full of bright, sunny faces. This was not one of your stiff, formal sociables, where people sit around and make uncharitable remarks about their neighbors behind their fans; but a group of people assembled to give pleasure to each other. Bob Flint enjoyed it thoroughly. His friend, Mr. Durand, approached him during the evening with an approval nod.

"Never saw you play the agreeable so energetically before, Bob. Why, wife says you are quite an acquisition. Have you been presented to Miss Blake, Ellie Blake, yet?"

"No. Who is she?"

"She's an authoress."

"Horrors! Keep her away."

"Wait until you know something about her before you say that. She has been a friend of my wife since the year one, and next to my wife she's the nicest little woman living. She knows how to do everything, make bonnets and dresses, take care of a house, cook, sing, and write. She knows everything a woman ought to know."

"And a little more, I'm afraid. Ned, I do dread authoresses and clever women. Perhaps she'll make fun of me."

"I shouldn't wonder if she did. My wife made fun of me before she got too desperately in love with me to see my imperfections. I tell you. Ellie Blake is a brave, good woman—a woman who has had a hand to hand struggle with poverty, a woman who never quailed before the door, but battled with it till she conquered it."

Bob Flint's quick feelings were touched. "I should like to see such a woman," he said. "Which is she? I don't see any one who looks like an authoress."

"My dear boy, they're not all made after the same pattern. There she is, resting her head on the mantle."

Bob looked eagerly, and saw a sweet, fair face, not classically beautiful, but irresistibly attractive in spite of the irregularity of feature.

Laughingly Mr. Durand approached her. "If you are not in a very critical mood, to-night, Miss Blake, I want to present my friend, Mr. Flint, to you. He's not so hard as his name would suggest; so deal with him gently, I pray you."

Bob's dread of the authoress soon vanished, and it seemed to him that he was on enchanted ground, till he was aroused by a general signal of departure.

"Miss Blake," said Mr. Durand, "I'm here to redeem my promise to see you home; but if you'll accept a poor substitute, I will offer Mr. Flint in my place."

"Provided Mr. Flint be willing," rejoined Miss Blake.

Mr. Flint was only too happy. It was a clear, star-light night, and Ellie Blake was even lovlier, with a background of nature, than she was in the parlor.

She and Mr. Flint walked unhurriedly till they came to a little cottage, almost covered with vines. Roses, woodbine and pale morning glories twined over it till there was little of the cottage to be seen save the windows, and in these hung delicate moss baskets; while the delicious fragrance of heliotrope, roses, geraniums and mignonnette filled the air.

"Whose little nest is this?" asked Bob.

"Mine," was the reply.

"I thought so," he replied. "Houses reflect the character of their inmates. You may judge every living creature by his permanent surrounding."

"What judgment do you pronounce, then, on the owner of this little nest, as you call it?"

"I should say that she possessed exquisite refinement and ideality; that her artistic senses were fully developed."

"Thanks. You flatter me. Come and see it by daylight. You have the password—the open sesame. Good night."

"May I come to-morrow?"

"Yes, you may come to-morrow."

"Then good night, and pleasant dreams."

No boy in his teens was ever more completely bewitched by a dazzling woman than was Bob Flint by this much-dreaded authoress. He was awake all night wishing it was the next day, that he might see her again. And when he did see her again the charme deepened. Everything in and about the house had for him the attraction of novelty.

A diminutive colored girl opened the door for him, and bowed him into a tiny parlor. Here he saw every evidence of culture. A cabinet organ occupied the space between the windows; a beautifully carved writing desk stood in one corner of the room; on each side the mantle were book shelves filled with valuable books, while over the mantle piece there hung a soft chromo, representing a scene in the Alps; fine steel engravings were hung on the wall, also innumerable little straw frames contained photographs of eminent painters, musical composers and authors. Delicate white muslin curtains, with fluted ruffles, hung at the windows. Richly tinted autumn leaves filled a parian vase on a bracket of carved wood, while an exquisite marble bust stood on a pedestal by itself; three or four easy chairs and a lounge completed the furniture of this room, with the exception of a center table on which was a student's lamp, a vase of fresh flowers, and a standing globe of the earth. A light, delicate carpet covered the floor. It was the abode of refinement, though not of wealth. Unfortunately the two are not always combined. Bob Flint felt the influence of the room at once. It was soothing, tranquilizing, harmonious. He found himself drawn to it repeatedly.

"Am I stealing your time?" he asked one day. "Don't I interrupt your writing."

"No," replied Ellie Blake; "I always write in the morning from nine till eleven. That is a self-made rule that I rigidly adhere to. After eleven I can do as I please with my time; and if you are a close observer, you will find that I am never idle even when you are here."

"I have remarked that fact." Bob replied. "It seems that your hands are never unemployed."

"It is an old habit," she answered, with a half sigh. "There was a time when I had to work constantly; when I could not afford to keep even such a dot of a servant as I have now, and my own fingers had to do the work for myself and a young brother who is now away at school. I am far from rich now, but I have bought this little home out of my own savings, and I have many comforts, and little work compared with what I had then."

"You cannot mean that you did all your work yourself?" asked Bob.

"Yes; every bit of it—sweeping, dusting, cooking, making fires, scrubbing even," she answered with a merry laugh.

"But to a person of your refinement—"

"I never lost one iota of self-respect thereby, Mr. Flint, if that is what you mean. I should do the same thing over again to-morrow if it were necessary."

"Of course it could not lessen your self respect, nor could it lessen you in the estimation of any one man or woman of sense It is greatly to your credit, but I do not understand how you found time to write."

"I always made time for that as well as for reading. I think those two things are as necessary to me as sleeping or eating. The difficulty at first was to get a publisher for what I wrote. A novice in literature must have patience and perseverance in unlimited quantities in order to succeed. But when you get a fair start, literature pays well, and it is a delightful profession, one that has nothing repulsive in it, nor jarring to one's sensibility."

"Still, as you say, there are difficulties at the start, and it must be fearfully discouraging to beginners."

"I believe that it is to many; but I have always possessed such an amount of self-reliance that it was never discouraging for more than a moment at a time, but kept on, bearing in mind a little precept taught me in the days of childhood. "If you don't succeed at first, try, try again."

"I think I must take lessons of you in perseverance; will you teach it to me."

"If I could teach such a thing I should found schools for that purpose. I think it can be acquired, but it cannot be taught. Will you stay to lunch?"

"No, thank you, I promised to be back at Ned's in time for lunch. I must give him a little of my time before I leave. You know I go to-morrow. It has been a much longer visit than I intended it to be."

Had he been watching her he would have seen a sudden gloom fill those grey yes of hers.

"Isn't your departure rather unexpected?"

"Yes, rather; may I come in again this evening and take a farewell walk with you?"

"You may, but you must accept my hospitallity this time, and come to tea; after tea we will take the walk?"

So it was agreed, and Bob returned punctually. Miss Blake was waiting for him at the door, the vines around the doorway forming a frame for her own picturesque self. She wore a dress of silver grey, a soft material that fitted her graceful, slight form to perfection; she wore a knot of scarlet velvet at her throat, and a bright red rosebud nestled in green leaves in her wavy chestnut hair.

I cannot go to-morrow, thought poor Bob.

She met with a sweet, rippling laugh. "I'm so glad you're on time, I was afraid my biscuit would be all cold. You are very good. Come right in to supper."

She showed him into a snug, cozy little dining room. The round table was covered with a snowy cloth, and fairly glittered with its display of bright silver and shining porcelain. And such deliciously-prepared little dishes, and such fragrant tea. But somehow both guest and hostess were unusually quiet and reserved over it; both felt that this was the first, and perhaps the last, meal they should ever partake of together.

After tea, Miss Blake put on her bonnet for the walk.

"Are you ready, Miss Blake?" asked Bob.

"In one minute; I cannot find my gloves."

"Can I help you? Where shall I look?"

"Look around the room for them."

Bob stood up composedly, and looked around the room.

"I don't see them," he said. "Wait perhaps they are in this drawer." He opened a drawer in the writing desk, and found in it a faded lilac kid glove. "Is this one?"

She looked at it carelessly, and replied: "Oh, no. That is an odd glove. I lost the mate to it long ago. There is a saying that everything comes in use once in seven years now, and it's of no use. I think I shall throw it away."

"Where did you lose its mate?"

"It was at Milton, I believe—a little village that I don't suppose you've ever heard of. I remember it well; for in those days kid gloves were a luxury to me. I had got this pair to wear on a visit there, and I lost one of them coming from church the day before I left; so I had to go about with one hand ungloved for some time afterwards."

"I have the mate to this."

"And I found it seven years ago." He handed her a faded little lilac glove, the undoubted mate of her own. "See, this is the talisman that has brought me to you. Seven summers ago, Miss Blake, on a bright, summer morning—just such a morning as this was—I found this little glove in a bed of moss, beside a brook. Ned Durand was with me, and I pledged my word to him that I would find the owner, and claim the hand that wore that glove. I have found the owner. I ask her now for the hand in exchange for the glove. Will she give it to me? I have waited seven long years."

She raised her beautiful eyes to his, and he read his answer there.

"The gloves are mated," he said, "my own sweet love—my Cinderella."

"An Old Maids Evenings."

BY HECLA HOLLYWOOD.

Gentle reader, I come before you with no stale love story, nor sentimental nonsense; it is merely the "wailings" of one of that odious class of people, an old maid.

Kind friend of sixteen, pause ere you turn up your nose, or toss your pretty head; should you pass me in the street do not put on that air of supreme indifference and show in your very movements the contempt you feel in your heart. If you knew how sadly in need of a kind word or sypathetic look I am, I am sure you would not refuse. Once I was as young as you, and perhaps as beautiful and as happy. Parents, relatives, friends, and every thing bowed to and executed my will.

Suitors for my hand were not wanting, I thought it no harm to coquette with those who honored me with a proposal, in reality I favored none, I loved none, my king had not made his appearance.

At last one came, my heart flew to meet him, acknowledging him as owner. That was "love at first sight" you say, it must have been. He came very often, and I loved him so, I am sure I could not help showing it.

The hour came, the hour of greatest happiness and deepest misery I have ever known, he told me that he loved me, that I was his all, his life. Did I love him? How plainly he read it in my flushing, happy face and downcast eyes. That was heavenly, to hear him talk so sweetly. It seems as if the gods had given me enough happiness, for soon I saw the bitter dregs in the cup of nectar.

While leaning there silently happy—the first kiss of love still upon my trembling lip, I heard him ask if I knew Walter Knox? Know him? Only too well. 'Twas he who, in a moment of utter-helplessness had won and engaged himself to me. It is too tedious to repeat here. How we met at a hotel in N—when he was a grown man, and I only a child; how he plead and won from me a promise that I would marry him in one year from that day. In the happy excitement of my "first love affair" I firmly expected to fulfil my vows, but one year brought other and more important things to think about, and besides if I married him, misery would follow, because I did not love him at all.

"O 'tis the curse in love and still approved,
What women cannot love where thy are beloved?"

I know he loved me, he was old enough to understand the meaning of love. I was not. I have never seen him since that fatal day; they say that he is a raving maniac, and calls for me constantly.

Knowing all this as well as I did, surely his name would call up any thing but pleasant recollections of the past. But when the man I loved and confided in so implicitly told me that Walter Knox was his only brother, and that, dead as he is in his grave, he is now avenged, I was horror struck. I soon felt my position, I had been intentionally and cruelly duped, because I had unintentionally been the cause of Walter Knox' wrecked life.

Was this right, did you ask? I do not know. "Vengence is mine saith the Lord."

Did I hate the man who had avenged his brother? No, he had broken my heart, yet I had charity enough left to forgive, and love him forever!

He told that he did really love me, but that he was engaged to another, and of the two he thought I was the one to suffer. Certainly I learned then "that forbearance is one path to heaven."

I witnessed his marriage, feeling all the time as if I was the bride. How I managed to love him is more than I can tell, for he owned that he came to see me with the firm resolve to avenge his brother intending to keep his heart clear; he had fulfilled his avenging mission, but was heart-broken himself, because he loved me, and was bound to another.

In one year the bride was a widow, and with the going out of his life mine went too. In society I was as gay as ever, but my heart was there, "'twas in a quiet grave in a distant land, where the sad moon had just set."

Do you think that time, "change of season or place" will make any change in my mind? I tell you verily nay. In my home all is luxury and ease, my piano is unopened, my books and paintings have few charms, my canary plumes his wing almost in vain, in my life a long blank is found.

I sometimes ask, perhaps impiously, why my life was thus cast: then I remember that I might have been married and as happy as I am now perhaps but "I scorned to wed the man I could not love."

The ephemeral enjoyment of wealth could not buy the little of pleasure I have left; I will be his hero, and though "there is no marriage or giving in marriage there" I'll be his still.

Beneath this misty crape-like veil pinned with the diamond-stars I make a vow, lasting through time, ending in eternity, that I'll marry no man living, for I know that on the "evergreen shore" there is one to welcome me in heaven, one to love me there.

I have not told you his name? Never mind, I rather not. What more can I say? Only this, "old maids" have hearts, that often ache for want of sympathy—for

"Sorrow concealed, like an oven stopped,
Doth burn the heart to cinders where it is."

SOUTH MILLS, N. C.

A Brief History of this District.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

In contemplating the present political condition of our country, you will allow me to take retrospective view of the past thirty or more years. In 1839, Hon. Kenneth Rayner, Whig, was elected over his opponent in this Congressional District by a majority of 620 votes. Continuing its Representative for three consecutive terms he declined a renomination in 1845 upon the grounds of ill health.

Col. David Outlay took the field as the candidate of the Whig Party in 1845. He was defeated by his opponent, Asa Biggs, by a small majority. The subject of immediate annexation of Texas being the principle issue that divided the parties at that time, and the theory advocated by Col. Biggs, proved to be so thoroughly a farce that Col. Outlaw, sought and obtained the nomination of his party in 1847, and was elected by a considerable majority. Continuing to be our Representative for three successive terms he was placed in nomination for a fourth, but was defeated by his opponent Dr. Henry M. Shaw in 1853, by a very small majority.

After the expiration of his first term, Shaw was renominated for a second, but was defeated by his opponent Col. Robert T. Paine, in 1855 by a majority of over 300. After the close of his term Col. Paine declined renomination, whereupon the Whigs placed in nomination Hon. Wm. N. H. Smith as their condidate in the campaign of 1857. But he was defeated by Dr. H. M. Shaw whom the Democrats put in the field, by a majority of about 37 votes.

THE WORK OF THE ADMINISTRATION.

The policy of the Republican Party everywhere is retrenchment and reform in the conduct of public business and a reduction of the burdens of taxation. No better evidence of this fact need be cited than the fact that since President GRANT assumed the administration of the national debt, which at one time bore so oppressively on all the interests of the people, and appeared so large that its cancelling was despaired of even by those who were most confident and enthusiastic over the ability of the people to accomplish great things in the way of raising revenue, has been decreased so rapidly as to inspire the hope that the present generation will live to see the nation entirely out of debt.

Let the figures! Gen. GRANT has been in office a little over three years. At the commencement of his administration the machinery of the Government was out of order, having been run in the loose, disorderly and slip shod manner marked the abortive efforts of ANDREW JOHNSON to preside over the nation. Necessarily some considerable time elapsed before everything was got into system again, and the various departments of the public service cleared out of dishonest knaves, who, having bought their places from the agents of the accidental President, were making the most of them.

But work the change. In thirty-seven months of GRANT'S Presidency the national debt was reduced $315,131,777 or an average per month of OVER $8,500,000! The good work has not stopped. There is no inclination on the part of the Government to relax its efforts and faithfully account for the revenues. For the exhibit of March was most flattering, showing a decrease of $15,481,968, or over HALF A MILLION DOLLARS PER DAY!

Is this not a sufficient refutation of the oft repeated calumnies uttered by the conscienceless press of the opposition to the effect that the affairs of the general government are managed in an extravagant manner, and with no regard for the public welfare?

HORACE GREELEY NOMINATED FOR PRESIDENT.

The Cincinnati Convention has met, deliberated, and is over. The candidates ballotted for were HORACE GREELEY of New York, CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS of Massachusetts, Hon. LYMAN TRUMBULL of Illinois, Hon. SALMON P. CHASE of Ohio, and Judge DAVIS of Illinois. On the sixth ballot Mr. GREELEY was nominated. For Vice President B. GRATZ BROWN of Missouri was nominated.

As for Mr. GREELEY, he never has been a formidable candidate, and he never will be. His singular capacity for playing the bull in the china shop, and smashing his own crockery is never so conspicuous as when he is in nomination for office, and his friends will have all they can do to keep him straight.

As to the platform, Mr. GREELEY can accept a statement of principles old and familiar—a mass of platitudes and glittering generalities. The Tariff question is left to the decision of the Congressional Districts—a most lame and impotent conclusion for the Reformers.

So the campaign opens, but with no demonstration that need alarm any Republican or any friend of the National Administration. It remains to be seen whether the Democrats will accept Mr. GREELEY or whether they will trust to a presumed split in the Republican party and act independently.

ADVICE TO WRITERS.

Omit the beginning of your essay. Most of writers not used to the press, imagine that a newspaper article, like an oration, should have an exordium, an argument and a conclusion. Not at all. The argument is all that is wanted. That is, state your case, say your say, and stop. Do not take time and space to get into the subject, and more to get out of it; but come to it instantly, and stop when you are done.

Dr. GRIFFIN used to say that he could put the five volumes of a Bible Commentary into one volume, and not lose an idea worth retaining. We believe he could have done it.

Be short. The time is short, the world is very fast now, and readers of newspapers do not want long articles. Pack your thoughts into short words, short sentences, short essays. If you never do a great thing, never do a long thing.

Come to the point. If you have no point, lay down the pen, and do something else rather than write. It is not every one who can write for edification, and you may not be one who can.

If you have not had much experience, write the article two or three times over carefully, making it shorter each time. Write on one side only of the paper. Write legibly. If your handwriting is poor, try and improve. Do not worry editors and compositors with your scrawls. Be very modest in your estimate of your own productions, and do not fret if others estimate them even less than you do.

For Governor—Hon. A. S. Merrimon, of Wake.

For Lieutenant Governor—John W. Hughes, of Craven.

For Attorney General—Judge W. M. Shipp, of Mecklenburg.

For Treasurer—John W. Graham, of Orange.

For Secretary of State—John A. Womack, of Chatham.

For Auditor—Collett Leventhorpe, of Caldwell.

For Sup't of Public Instruction—Nereus Mendenhall, of Guilford.

For Sup't of Public Works—James H. Separk, of Wake.

It is not a strong ticket. It can and will be defeated.

The people of the United States are jealous of their Government and a large majority of them deeply distrust the Democratic party. It is this attachment to the Government, with all its triumphs and glories in the past, and this distrust of the Democratic secession party, that will save the nation in 1872. The probabilities of the result of Democratic rule have only to be contemplated by the people to rouse them to such vigilance and activity as will render such rule impossible. The country prospers in Republican hands; it would be involved in troubles and be overtaken by calamities, if in the hands of Democracy, which patriots in every section, of every class, may well shudder to think of.

The following eloquent words were uttered by no less a personage than one Horace Greeley, and in view of the signs of the times we are inclined to think them prophetic: "We are led," remarked Mr. Greeley, "by him who first taught our armies to conquer in the West, and subsequently in the East, also. Richmond would not come to us until we sent Grant after it, and then it had to come. [Cheers.] He has never been defeated, and he never will be. He will be as great and successful on the field of politics as on that of arms."

From our exchanges we learn that the tide of travel to Europe is tremendous and increasing. The Steamers are crowded, and "everybody" seems to be going. Americans are a nation of travelers, but there is much in our own country which they should study before going abroad.

The last number of the Wilmington Post was a capital one. Its three leading editorials were taken from the NORTH CAROLINIAN. We have no objection to furnishing matter for our respected cotemporary, but then we would like to have credit for it.

We publish, as an item of news, the Platform of the Liberal Republican Party. It is amusing to see our Democratic friends Dr. SPEED, COL. MARTIN and others standing upon it—especially the 1st, 2nd and 9th planks.

Ours is a platform of principles and not of offices. How much better it would be if all who profess to be Republicans were actuated by the same motives—stood upon this platform.

AMERICAN ENERGY.

It is really astonishing how rapidly the American people repair losses of whatever character. Their powers of recuperation appear to be almost limitless. Only six years have elapsed since the entire nation was plunged in a dreadful war, a war such as the world never before witnessed, and which threatened the total destruction of the Government, and yet to day, except the immense national debt growing out of this mighty contest, all evidences of its occurrence appear to have passed away but its memories, and even these are growing fainter and fainter with each revolving year.

We have received the Canvassing Agents's Manual. It is published in the interests of Publishing Houses and Manufacturing Companies from all parts of the Country having goods to sell through Agents. It contains an original article on the history of subscription book business, with other readable matter interesting to Canvassing Agents. Being the only medium of the kind published, it will be found indispensable to every Agent throughout the land.

NORTH CAROLINA AS SEEN BY OTHERS.

A Northern gentleman who spent some time visiting this State writes to his home paper as follows:

After traveling some time through this State, I must say that the future greatness of North Carolina is beyond the power of the most gifted pen to depict. This country is of great natural beauty, unlimited in its resources, rich in sunshine, fruits, flowers, cotton, corn, tobacco, cattle, minerals, and great water power, with splendid central points for manufacturing enterprises. No country can be found on this broad earth to furnish a more delightful home than this, which for fertility of soil, serenity of climate and variety of products is unsurpassed. I think North Carolina ought to be famed for its clear streams, stalward men and bonnie lassies.

The clear-headed and thrifty people of the Northern States are not remarkable for sudden outbursts of enthusiasm, and the gentleman who wrote the above is no exception. Cool, calm and clear-headed as he is, the great natural advantages of our State have made him captive. He intends making North Carolina his future home.

NOT TRUE.

A correspondent writes to know whether the statement recently made by Ex-Governor VANCE is true, to wit: that the Ku Klux organization was gotten up as a defense against the Union League? We answer no. The Union League was a harmless political society, organized for the purpose of diffusing information, disseminating documents, and rallying those who belonged to the Republican party, or who could be brought to adopt that faith. Violence was no part of its purpose. It did not seek to make converts by terrorism or by the commission of crimes. It was simply a political organization, designed to operate upon men, not through their fears, but through their reason. To present the existence of such an organization as an excuse for the Ku Klux Klan is quite as reasonable as the complaint made by the wolf, who said to the lamb that went to drink at the stream lower down that the lamb muddied the water so that he, the wolf, could not drink.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

There has been another reduction of the public debt. The Administration is determined to relieve the country of its war debt as soon as possible, and we find from the official monthly statement that during the month of April TWELVE AND A HALF MILLIONS have been redeemed. How are the Democrats and their sore-head allies going to convince the country that an Administration so faithful to its interests should be changed?

Congressman DAWES got off a good thing the other day. In a speech he remarked that he did not know that there was any occasion for him further to advocate the Protection policy, inasmuch as the man who, more than any other, had taught this doctrine, was now the standard-bearer of all those who had heretofore been opposed to it.

Correspondence.

Republican Meeting in Mount Hermon.

Pursuant to notice the Republicans of Mt. Hermon Township held a meeting on Tuesday evening last. The meeting was organized by calling Benjamin Johnson to the Chair and appointed Wm. Nixon Secretary. On motion the following gentlemen were appointed as Executive Committee for the Township, Wm. J. Munden, John Johnson, Alfred Turner, Ben Johnson and H. Perry. On motion a Committee of five was appointed on resolutions, who reported the following which were unanimously and enthusiastically adopted:

Resolved, 1. That we the Republicans of Mount Hermon Township in Convention assembled faithfully adhere to the platform and principles of the Republican party of North Carolina enumerated in its Conventions.

2. That we endorse and approve of President Grant's Administration and cordially recommend his re-nomination for the Presidency.

3. That the course of Hon. John Pool, United Senator, meets with our hearty and entire approval and we believe we are indebted to him mainly for the peace and quiet we now enjoy in this State.

4. That the Administration of Gov. Caldwell is endorsed by this meeting and we will use all honorable means to secure his election in August next.

5. That we believe the Convention held at Cincinnati, composed of the so-called Liberal Republicans, was gotten up and manipulated by disappointed Republican office seekers and sore heads in the interest of the Democracy and is but another clandestined movement to place the Government in the hands of that secession Ku Klux party.

6. That this meeting recommend C. W. Grandy, Jr., and Elihu A. White to represent the people of this Senatorial District in the next Legislature and if nominated we pledge them our entire support.

7. That we recommend Wm. J. Munden as a candidate to represent this County in the next Legislature of North Carolina and if nominated we pledge him our entire support.

8. That in John L. Wood our Sheriff we find a true and faithful officer who is worthy of the confidence of the people of the entire County we cordially endorse his past course—recommend his nomination—that we pledge him our undoubted confidence and support.

9. That we endorse the bold and fearless and outspoken course of the NORTH CAROLINIAN and recognize that paper as a true exponent of Republican principles and a faithful organ of our party.

Stirring speeches were made by Wm. J. Munden, John Q. A. Wood and others. The meeting adjourned with three rousing cheers for the Union and the Resolutions.

Our Washington Letter.
No. 20.

Washington, D. C., May 2nd, 1872.

THE PROCESS OF SELF PURIFICATION.

It is no doubt a fact that a victorious party like a victorious army has many mercenary camp followers. Men join its ranks for the sole purpose of becoming recipients of its honors and emoluments, and if they happen to be unable to rise from the ranks, or are compelled from any cause, to retire from office, they become discontented, fault finding, and inimical. A few months ago the question was seriously mooted how to rid the Republican party of this rubbish. As the patronage of the government diminished, and sinecure places were abolished, this office seeking element became so important and offensive to the masses, that many people seriously entertained the idea of calling upon the best men and most advanced elements of the party to meet and consult for the purpose of freeing the party from these barnacles.

Fortunately for the party and the Republic this mercenary element could stand it no longer. The thieves and agents, who in vain purchased at the door of the Treasurer, with unfounded claims and other pretexts, and who could neither by purchase, nor cajolement induce the Executive Department to aid them in the consummation of their rascally schemes, quit the Republican party in disgust to build up a new "Reform Party" in conjunction with the Democrats, ex-rebels or any other class of men who would allow themselves to be used to overthrow the Republican organization.

Ex-Mayor Bowen, ex-auditor John Wilson, ex-M. C. Stillwell of Indiana, ex-M. C. Grinell of Iowa, ex-U. S. Attorney Jesse O. Morton of Illinois, ex-Asst. Secretary of War Dana, and ex-everybody have, fortunately for the purity of the party, gone to Cincinnati to get up a party for themselves a Mackeral Brigade with no one of less rank than a Brigadier General in the batallion. We are not disposed to underrate this movement, because whatever energy and malignity can do, will be done by these men to regain their lost places. The Cincinnati Convention may fairly be called the hungry wolves Convention, for it is almost exclusively composed of office holders, who were removed because they had lost the confidence of the party. Ex-Secretary Cox, ex-Revenue Commissioner Wells, ex-Congressional Printer J. D. Defrees, ex-Collector Hiram Barney, and every one of the prime movers of the Convention are in search of office, and a spectacle like this of a mass Convention of office hunters has never before been witnessed.

The Republican party, purified by this exodus will undoubtedly enjoy the confidence of the public in a more eminent degree, and retain its power for many years.

CHEAP TEA AND COFFEE.

The House bill placing tea and coffee on the free list became a law yesterday. Much as some of the professed reformers have opposed this measure of justice to the people, it will be one of the great triumphs of the administration in its fight for the true interests of the masses. The prosperous condition of all classes of American citizens has made Coffee and Tea universal necessities of life. Will any man dare profess the belief that only men of means can afford to use tea and coffee for the domestic table.

The experience of all shows that our working men and industrious poor have latterly grown into a general use of these expensive articles, which as other countries are considered luxurious to which poor men dare not aspire.

The tariff on tea is at present 15 cts., in gold per lb, with fees and charges which run it up to about 30 cts., additional cost to the consumers, caffee 3 cts., which amounts to about 34 cts., per lb. in currency. All this will be saved after the first of July, and the return to ante-bellum prices on these articles will cause a reduction of expenses to working men that they will readily appreciate, and they will not fail to give the credit where it belongs, to the administration.

NATIONAL EDUCATION.

There is a very considerable inquiry throughout the country for the last annual report of Gen. Eaton Commissioner of Education. The Bureau of Education over which he so ably presides has grown to be one of the best appreciated branches of the Interior Department. The last admirable report, as sent out to the press in the form of proof sheets from which information of an invaluable charter has already been extensively copied has brought national educational efforts very prominently before the public. It is now generally conceded that more can be done through the medium of a National Bureau than perhaps in any other way. With public national education in full blast this Bureau will still be indispensable, and until the Common Schools are universal through all the States there is no more important work than that which is done in pushing statistics and practical measures for introducing general education through the length and breadth of the land. In aid of this there is great need of issuing a large edition of Gen. Eaton's report and Congress should not be economical in this direction, unless they can consider a few dollars more important than the growth of national knowledge on the subject of the best means of promoting national education.

PROHIBITORY REPUBLICANS.

The only prospect of an appreciable change in the German vote away from the party of the administration is likely to come of efforts of Republicans to nationalize the temperance movement—Schurz to the contrary notwithstanding. They cannot be affected by mere local temperance organizations, but if Republicans wish to be relieved of the beer-drinking German vote, they have only to commit themselves to any form of national temperance organization. This information has been just obtained from leading Germans traveling through the West and gathering information on living issues of the day. "A word to the wise," etc. C. M.

Great Master from whom all blessings flow
Cut down the pole and let it go.

Gerrit Smith—the life long friend of Senator Sumner—has announced his intention of supporting General Grant for renomination. He opposed Lincoln in 1864.

When the unexpected triumph of the Democracy in 1870 put them in possession of the State government, they had but one cherished, full purpose, that was to destroy the charter of the People's Rights and authority—the State Constitution of 1868. There is no doubt about this, as all the action of the party since August 1870, shows. The General Assembly, in its majority, was made up of instruments fitted for an unrelenting war upon the State Constitution. Deadly hatred to the United States Government—relentless bitterness toward the enfranchised negro—contempt and fear of the working man—steeped in the prejudice of caste and influenced with Ku Klux madness—these were the men for the work and for the hour. The Senate was made ready by the violent and unfair ousting of Maj. W. A. Smith and Mr. Lassiter. Governor Holden was impeached and exiled. Thus far all seemed clear. The masses were intimidated. Ku Klux were rampant—their friends were in power—the way was open—and the Democracy marched foward in solid column to overthrow the palladium of the People's liberty—the Constitution. Everything was in readiness! The nefarious Convention bill was passed.—The Republican party was disheartened and demoralized. It was a dark hour. It seemed like the days of 1861. Good men wept and prayed. The faint-hearted were in tears and ready to leave the land of their birth. Who, under the Almighty, stepped into the breach and turned the tide—saved the Homestead—stifled revolution—maintained the Constitution and preserved liberty? The answer is easy: The Supreme Court of Gov. Caldwell. The veto message of the Governor sent dismay into the Ku Klux camp. The General Assembly was astounded—disconcerted—in its treasonable attempt against human liberty and the welfare of our People. Backed by the Supreme Court, Gov. Caldwell did this noble deed. At the same time weaker men wept, and the Govenor knew that his refusal to execute the so-called Convention Act, would be followed by an attempt to impeach him. That was the hour of our extremity, and Republican liberty in North Carolina owes the Supreme Court and Gov. Caldwell an eternal debt of gratitude. To that Court and the Governor, the colored man is indebted for his right to vote, and thousands are indebted for the homes they occupy to-day. To the Supreme Court and Gov. Caldwell we owe our flattering prospects for triumphant victories in August and November next. Who is more worthy to be our standard bearer in the campaign against Ku Klux, Democrats, Conservatives, and those who steal by the letter "m?" Who so worthy to be our leader as the man who failed not in the hour of our need? The Convention paid a proper respect to honest courage when it selected Tod R. Caldwell as the Republican candidate for Governor.—Era.

Abuse of Presidents.

Why should Grant escape what no other President has been able to avoid? President Washington was used much worse than President Grant has been used, because men were more ferociously abusive in 1795 than they are in 1872. We may not be any better than were our departed and sainted grandparents and great-grandparents, in a moral sense—but we are much more decorous than were those defunct worthies, who not only called a spade a spade, but employed it to throw the vilest sort of dirt on whomsoever they did not like, the frank old fellows that they were. President Jefferson had much trouble to keep things tolerably straight, powerful as he was as Democratic Pope, Grand Lama, and Caliph and Old Man of the Mountain—Monticello. He wanted to make Mr. Madison his successor, whereupon Mr. Monroe took the sulks, and went in for succession himself; and he was all the more angry because the Prestdent had squabashed the treaty he had made with English mission. Those were the days of the Tertium Quids, a political tribe of Benjamin of no little account in or about the year of grace 1808, but now as little known as "the disaffected" will be known in the year of grace 1936, should Dr. Cumming graciously be pleased to spare the world long enough to allow it to see the Greeley Almanac of that date. Mr. Monroe was bought off. He went high, did James Monroe. He got the Governorship of Virginia, the post of Secretary of State in the Cabinet and the Presidency in 1816-25. He was counted rather a dull fellow, but we should like to see any one of our present fellows dispose of himself at such a price. In 1812 President Madison had to face "a disaffected" movement, from which came the nomination of De Witt Clinton for the Presidency, who was also supported by the Federalists. President Jackson was resolute to make Mr. Van Buren his successor—and, as he always succeeded in his undertakings, Mr. Van Buren was chosen; but Old Hickory had a tough time of it, fighting against Mr. Rives and Judge White, and others of his friends who were not willing to take up the New Yorker. President Lincoln found a heap of Republicans who were opposed to his re-election, but the people stood by him, and put him in again. President Grant is encountering what was encountered by Washington, by Jefferson, by Madison, by Jackson, and, like them all, he will come victoriously out of the civil war brought on by our latest lot of secessionists. He will Donelsonize them, and Vicksburg them, and Chattanooga them, and "hammer" them, and bring them on their shaky knees at some Appromattox yet to be found, and made immortal. They have no more chance against him than Buckner had, or than Pemberton had, or than Bragg had, or than Lee had. They had better come down at once, and give up, and so secure good treatment.

The Platform of the Liberal Republican Party.

We, the Liberal Republicans of the United States, in National Convention assembled at Cincinnati, proclaim the following principles as essential to just government:

First: We recognize the equality of all men before the law, and hold that it is the duty of Government in its dealings with the people to mete out equal and exact justice to all of whatever nativity, race, color, or persuasion, religious or political.

Second: We pledge ourselves to maintain the union of these States, emancipation and enfranchisement, and to oppose any reopening of the questions settled by the Thirteenth, Fourteenth, and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution.

Third: We demand the immediate and absolute removal of all disabilities imposed on account of the Rebellion, which was finally subdued seven years ago, believing that universal amnesty will result in complete pacification in all sections of the country.

Fourth: Local self-government, with impartial suffrage, will guard the rights of all citizens more securely than any centralized power. The public welfare requires the supremacy of the civil over the military authority, and freedom of person under the protection of the habeas corpus. We demand for the individual the largest liberty consistent with public order; for the State, self-government, and the nation a Fifth: The Civil Service of the Government has become a mere instrument of partisan tyranny and personal ambition and an object of selfish greed. It is a scandal and reproach upon free institutions and breeds a demoralization dangerous to the perpetuity of republican government. We therefore regard such thorough reforms of the Civil Service as one of the most pressing necessities of the hour; that honesty, capacity, and fidelity constitute the only valid claim to public employment; that the offices of the Government cease to be a matter of arbitrary favoritism and patronage, and that public station become again a post of honor. To this end it is imperatively required that no President shall be a candidate for reelection.

Sixth: We demand a system of Federal taxation which shall not unnecessarily interfere with the industry of the people, and which shall provide the means necessary to pay the expenses of the Government economically administered, the pensions, the interest on the public debt, and a moderate reduction annually of the principal thereof; and, recognizing that there are in our midst honest but irreconcilable differences of opinion with regard to the respective systems of Protection and Free Trade, we remit the discussion of the subject to the people in their Congress Districts, and to the decision of Congress thereon, wholly free of Executive interference or dictation.

Seventh: The public credit must be sacredly maintained, and we denounce repudiation in every form and guise.

Eighth: A speedy return to specie payment is demanded alike by the highest considerations of commercial morality and honest government.

Ninth: We remember with gratitude the heroism and sacrifices of the soldiers and sailors of the Republic, and no act of ours shall ever detract from their justly-earned fame or the full reward of their patriotism.

Tenth: We are opposed to all further grants of lands to railroads or other corporations. The public domain should be held sacred to actual settlers.

Eleventh: We hold that it is the duty of the Government, in its intercourse with foreign nations, to cultivate the friendship of peace, by treating with all on fair and equal terms, regarding it alike dishonorable either to demand what is not right, or to submit to what is wrong.

Twelfth: For the promotion and success of these vital principles and the support of the candidates nominated by this Convention, we invite and cordially welcome the cooperation of all patriotic citizens, without regard to previous affiliations.

THIS WEEK'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

L. W. Wells & Co., Commission Merchants.

Local and Personal.

☞ Court here next week.

☞ Several of the Fisheries have closed. They have all been very successful.

☞ Amusing—to hear the Democrats all over town hurrahing for HORACE GREELEY!

☞ MILLIE DARE will pay her respects to MR. BOGGINS in our next issue. Too late for this.

☞ The Republicans of Chowan will hold their County Convention on the 18th inst., to appoint delegates to the Congressional Conference.

☞ The Republican Senatorial Conference to nominate candidates for this District will be held at this place on Tuesday the 28th inst. See the call.

☞ The Democracy are boasting that they have now got a Mayor—the first they have had since the war. Of course, it was purely a Democratic victory.

☞ The following is the Democratic Committee for this Congressional District: Col. Wm. F. Martin, Pasquotank; Jos. B. Cherry, Bertie; Maj. J. J. Yeates Hertford; F. B. Satterthwait, Pitt.

☞ A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Republicans of Mount Hermon township was held on Tuesday evening. See proceedings. We tip our beaver to them for their good words for the NORTH CAROLINIAN.

☞ As we ride out into the country we see the wild flowers—beautiful and bright decking the fields and woods, whispering to the passers by their charming prophecies of the coming season of fruit. How refreshing.

☞ We understand that the County Convention for selecting delegates to the Senatorial and Congressional Conferences will be held in Elizabeth City on Saturday the 18th inst. Let there be a full attendance.

☞ Our Edenton correspondent informs us that the Republican ticket, at their Municipal election on Monday, was elected by an overwhelming majority. They have no Bolters there. Our good friend J. Z. PRATT was elected Mayor.

☞ There are a few individuals in the world who know too much to be taught anything. We have one or two of them in Elizabeth City. Had they been in at the creation they would have saved the Lord a deal of trouble.

☞ Among the Northern arrivals since our last we notice DANIEL CLAPP, wife and son from Muncy, Pa.; J. A. BREBEN from Williamsport, Pa.; H. WHITTINGTON, from Madison, Ill.; JOHN BUNNELL from Wellsboro, Pa. and WM. PAXSON from Philadelphia, Pa.

☞ Reports are reaching us from different parts of the District informing us that Hon. J. J. MARTIN, of Williamston, is rapidly developing strength for the Congressional nomination. The disorganizing course of the Elizabeth City Bolters is said to be operating in his favor. Just as we feared.

☞ At the meeting of the Farmer's Club on Saturday the first business was the report of the Chairman of the Executive Committee on Charter and Constitution. The report was read and considered by sections and adopted. The Society is now in working shape and more definite action towards securing Grounds for holding its annual Fairs will be taken.

☞ We are authorized to say that an offer is made by a good Republican and a responsible man to serve the Corporation as Town Constable for $200—a year. This will be a saving to the tax payers of $300 a year. The offer ought to be accepted at once. Another good Republican, also responsible, will serve as Treasurer without any salary.

☞ The great millionaire STEPHEN GIRARD, who rose to wealth from a poor penniless boy, believed in advertising. He said: "I have always considered advertising, liberally and long, to be the great medium of success in business and a prelude to wealth. And I have made it an invariable rule, too, to advertise in the dullest times, long experience having taught me that money thus spent is well laid out; as, by keeping my business continually before the public, it has secured me many sales I would otherwise have lost."

☞ The following is a list of Patents issued from the United States Patent Office to North Carolina Inventors for the week ending April 2d, 1872, and each bearing that date. Furnished this paper by Cox & Cox, Solicitors of Patents, Washington, D. C.

☞ Three years ago Elizabeth City was dull and lifeless—there was no business, no enterprise, no building, no employment for labor. But the "Northern element" began to arrive and at once a change come o'er the town and country. A new energy was infused, active business enterprise was inaugurated, important improvements were begun, new buildings all over the City erected—all causing employment for the mechanics and laboring men. Today, because of this working, go-a-head element among us, Elizabeth City is one of the most prosperous towns of the South. Compare it with neighboring towns not yet reached by Northern immigration and behold the contrast!

☞ The Municipal election for officers of Elizabeth City was held on Monday. The whole number of votes cast were 384, but only 371 for Mayor. Of course the Bolter's candidate was elected, not by the Republican vote, but by the consolidated vote of the Democracy. The Republican vote was 233. This is by no means the full vote. A number were kept from the polls by threats and intimidation. A full, fair, untrammeled vote would have given Mr. GRANDY at least 60 majority of the Republicans. The vote for Mr. COBB was 253; for Mr. GRANDY 118. The full Democratic vote—138 in number polled—were all cast for Mr. COBB, giving him a majority of 135.

——The Court House door was opened by force; the voting was begun by sunrise—an hour and a half before the legal time, which is thus clearly set forth in the Election and Registration Act of the State, ratified on the 10th of February 1872:

SEC. 14. That the polls shall be opened on the day of election from seven o'clock in the morning until sunset of the same day; registration was re-opened contrary to the plain letter of the law, which is in these words:

SEC. 11. No registration shall be allowed on day of election, but if any person shall give satisfactory evidence to the judges of the election that he has come of the age of twenty one years on the day of the election, or has, for any other reason, become on that day entitled to register, he shall be allowed to register and vote;

Sailors and watermen by numbers—strangers to us and our citizens, were brought up and registered, and the lame and the halt as well as the sick were carried in and voted. Victories thus obtained sometimes prove disasters.

May 4th, 1872. Cl'k Board of Comm'rs.

It is believed that for more than two centuries, between the years 1634 and 1856, no single Japanese voluntarily left his ocean-bound home.

Judge Cullen, of Missouri, is melancholy, and relieves his feelings thus in lines which have a very slight flavor of Tom Moore: "'Twas ever thus from childhood's hour, I've seen my fondest hopes decay; the Legislature was so sour that it refused to raise my pay."

"I think I have never been accused of riding two horses at once when they were headed in different directions," is the remark made by ex-Governor Fletcher, of Vermont, in repudiating the Cincinnati movement. The Governor is a sensible man, and won't be made a fool of.

Secretary Fish is reported to be willing to withdraw the claim on the United States for indirect damages, provided it be accepted as a principle of international law, hereafter, that in similar cases, no claim for consequential damages can be sustained. This appears fair and honorable, and we trust it will be accepted by the parties concerned, and ratified by all the leading powers. It would be a serious mistake to jeopardize the bona fide claims against England, by adhearing to the policy of claiming indirect damages, and so far as our government is concerned, the final solution of this international dispute would be doubly acceptable. Let it be fully determined that a neutral power is liable for all direct loss sustained, by its failure to enforce the laws of neutrality, in time of war, and a grand step forward will have been made, which will prove of lasting benefit to all.

HOW WE USED TO BE PHYSICKED.—Do we not remember the time when spring purgation was considered indispensable to summer health? No matter for wry faces, the inevitable salts and senna, rhubarb, or calomel and jalap, must be administered. These "spring medicines," the youngsters were told were to keep them hale and hearty during the summer. We all know now that this was a falacy; that new vigor, not depletion, is what is required at the commencement of the summer solstice. As a preparation for the enervating effects of oppressive summer weather, a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is highly expedient. This famous vegetable preparation has three prominent properties. It renovates, purifies, and regulates all the functions of the body. It is composed exclusively of pure vegetable productions, viz: the essential principle of Monongahela Rye, and the most efficacious tonic and alternate roots, barks, and gums known to medical botanists. Hence, it is an absolutely safe medicine, and no tincture of the Pharmacopœia can compare with it either comprehensive results. Happily for mankind, the theory that it was necessary to prostrate a patient in order to cure him, is forever exploded, and the true philosophical doctrine, that vigor is the great antagonist of disease, has taken its place. Hostetter's Bitters is an invigorant, and hence it is the proper medicine for the feeble at this most trying season of the year.

Be sure that you obtain the genuine article, as there are innumerable vile imitations in the market. Look to the ornamental stamp, the engraved label, and the name blown into the glass. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is sold in Bottles only.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A HEALTHY DIGESTION.—Life is rendered miserable when the digestive organs are impaired. Food become repulsive; the body emaciated; the mind depressed, and melancholy broods over you. TUTT'S VEGETABLE LIVER PILLS is the remedy for these evils; they produce soundigestion; create a good appetite, impart refreshing sleep and cheerfulness of mind.

CHARLESTON, S. C., August 1, 1869.

Dr. W. H. Tutt,

Dear Sir:—I wish to inform you, and if you desire you can publish it, that I have been afflicted for upwards of seven years with Dyspepsia. I could eat nothing that agreed with me. I became emaciated, had no energy, and felt gloomy and melancholy all the time. I have been using your Liver Pills for three weeks, and have experienced the greates benefit. I have a fine appetite, and can now eat anything. I cordially recommend them to al who have Dyspepsia.

DENNIS O'HALLORAN.

Dr. Tutt's Hair Dye contains no Sugar Lead.

A NEW BEAUTIFYING AGENT.—All Dentifrices had their drawbacks, until the Salubrious Bark of the Soap Tree was brought from the Chilian Valleys to perfect the fragrant Sozodont, the most delightful article for the teeth that a brush was ever dipped into.

"CHILDREN'S LIVES SAVED LOR 50 CENTS."—Every case of Croup can be cured when first taken, by Dr. Tobias' Venitian Liniment, warranted for 24 years and never a bottle returned. It also cures Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Sore Throat, Cuts, Burns and External Pains. Sold by the Druggists. Depot, 10 Park Place, New York.

VENUS herself would not have been beautiful if her complexion had been bad. If beauty is skin deep, it is necessary to secure and retain that part of it; and ladies instead of resorting to paints and powders, should remember that an impure, blotchy, or sallow skin is the proof of feeble digestion, torpid liver, or vitiated blood, for all which DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS is a safe, sure, and effectual remedy.

BURNETT'S COCOAINE.—No oils, neither pomades or alcoholic washes—foreign or domestic—can compare with Cocoaine as a HAIR DRESSING. It anchors the hair firmly in the scalp—gives it new life and lustre—and renders it the "crowning glory" of both sexes, old and young.

PRATT'S ASTRAL OIL—Safest and best illuminating Oil ever made. Does not take fire or explode, if the lamp is upset or broken. Over 150,000 families continues to use it, and no accidents of any description have occured from it. Gil House of Charles Pratt, established 1770, New York.

BEAUTIFUL WHITE, soft smooth, and clear skin is produced by using G. W. Laird's "Bloom of Youth." It removes tan, freckles, sunburns, and all other discolorations from the skin, leavine the complexion brilliant and beautiful. Sold at all druggists. This preparation is entirely free from any material detriment to health.

JUST THE REMEDY NEEDED—Thanks to Mrs' Winslow's Soothing Syrup, we have been relieved from sleepless nights of painful watching with poor, suffering teething children.

FOR DYSPEPSIA. Indigestion, depression of spirits and general debility in their various forms; also as a preventive against Fever and Ague, and other intermittent fevers. The Ferro-Phosphorated Elixir of Calisaya, made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all druggists, is the best tonic, and as a tonic for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal.

RISLEY'S GENUINE GOLDEN BALL COLOGN WATER according to the original formula of Prevost, Paris, so long and favorably known to the customers of Havilland, Harral and Risley and their branches, for its fine permanent fragrance is now made by H. W. Risley and the trade supplied by his successors, Morgan & Risley, Wholesale Druggists, New York.

THURSTON'S IVORY PEARL TOOTH POWDER.—The best article known for cleansing and preserving the teeth and gums. Sold by all Druggists. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. F. C. Wells & Co., New York.

Gives instant relief to burns, cures all kinds of sores, cuts and wounds; and a most invaluable salve for all purposes. Sold everywhere at 25 cents. John F. Henry, sole Proprietor, 8 College Place, New York.

CHRISTADORO'S HAIR DYE is the safest and best, it corrects the bad effects of inferior dyes, while the black or brown tints it produces are identical to nature. Factory 68 Maiden Lane, New York.

SYAPNIA is Opium purified of its sickening and poisonous properties, discovered by Dr. Bigelow, Professor of Botany, Detroit Medical College. A most perfect anodyne and soothing opiata. John Farr, Chemist, New York.

AGRICULTURAL, HORTICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC MATTERS.

A Useful Article.

Ammonia, or as it is generally called, spirits of hartshorn, is a powerful alkali, and dissolves grease and dirt with great ease. It has lately been recommended very highly for domestic purposes. For washing paint, put a tablespoonful in a quart of moderately hot water dip in a flannel cloth and then wipe off the wood work, no scrubbing will be necessary. For taking greasy spots from any fabric use the ammonia nearly pure, then lay white blotting paper over the spot and iron it lightly. In washing lace put about twelve drops in a pint of warm suds. To clean silver, mix two teaspoonsful of ammonia in a quart of hot suds. Put in your silverware and wash, using an old nailbrush or tooth-brush for the purpose. For cleaning hair-brushes, etc., simply shake the brushes up and down in a mixture of one tablespoonful of ammonia to one pint of hot water; when they are cleansed, rinse them in cold water, and stand them in the wind or a hot place to dry. For washing finger-marks from looking glasses or windows, put a few drops of ammonia on a moist rag and make quick work of it. If you wish your house plants to flourish put a few drops of the spirits in every pint of water used in watering. A teaspoonful will add much to the refreshing effects of the bath. Nothing is better than ammonia water for cleansing the hair. In every case wash off the ammonia with clear water which we would only add, that, for removing grease spots, a mixture of equal parts of ammonia and alcohol is better than alcohol alone; and for taking out the red stains produced by the strong acids in blue and black clothes, there is nothing better than ammonia.—[Providence Journal.

The Sunflower as a Disinfectant.

The Militar Wochenblatt has published an article by Dr. Valentine, of Frankford who gives many facts to show that the sunflower has the property of purifying air laden with marsh miasm, absorbing a great quantity of moist and noxious gases and inhaling an ozonized oxygen. The plant, it is said, has proved itself peculiarly useful in this respect in the neighborhoods of Washington and Philadelphia, where its cultivation has rendered whole quarters healthy and fever which had previously been uninhabitable by the prevalence of fever. A Dutchman, Von Alstein, whose property was situated on some flooded land on the bank of the Scheldt, has planted three or four plots, thirty or forty yards from his house, with the effect of so much improving the air that for ten years no one on the property had been attacked with miasmatic fever, which continued to prevail in the neighboring properties, where similar precautions were not taken. Besides this, the French Sanitary Commission pointed out, the sunflower is a useful plant. It yields about forty per cent. of good oil, the leaves furnish excellent fodder, and the stem, being rich in saltpetre and potash, makes a

Farm Poultry.

Farmers frequently neglect their fowls, much from a conviction thet they pay as because there are so many things to attend to. Yet oftentimes more is spent on more pretentious affairs that as profitable as that devoted to poultry. Of course muchd epends on location and the market. A flock of fowls is as usual on farms, will in most cases, if rightfully managed, yield the value annually (either gross or net) of a good cow. But no farmer expects a cow can be tended a year and not raised, cut, and housed, without considerable work. Fowls, if allowed their freedom, may be managed with less than when than they are yard in any case a great deal of time must be spent in raising chickens in sufficient numbers to keep the ranks of the poultry stock always mainly filled with young stock old, is indispensable to success. It should be remembered that eggs are more profitable than table fowls, except in the early chickens.

The following is an American recipe for making blackberry wine: "Crush the fruit with a wooden pestle in a wooden bucket; draw off all the juice, and to an equal quantity of water and pounds of refined sugar for each gallon of the mixture. Keep it in jars till fermentation is complete, and then bung and cork it up. A second fermentation will take place in the ensuing month, during which another pound of sugar should be added to each gallon. The wine thus prepared will keep well, and improve with age."

Bleeding from a wound on man or beast may be stopped by a mixture of flour and common salt, in equal parts, bound on with a cloth. If the bleeding is profuse use a large quantity, from one to three pints. It may be left on for hours, or even days, if necessary. The person who gave this recipe in this manner he saved the life of a horse which was bleeding from a wounded artery, the bleeding ceased five minutes after the application.

Speak Softly to Horses.

No man must speak loudly to any of horses, or in the stable where they are. Horses of good blood are nervous, excited, excited conversation is felt by the horse in the stable who hears it. Loud words addressed to one horse are heard by every other horse who hears them, and keeps them all nervous and uneasy.

A Canadian Farmer says: "Nothing is wanting but good hives, good pasturage, cleanliness and attention, to insure a rich reward to those who engage in bee culture; but training is quite as necessary to the full comprehension of the occupation, as it is to the trade of a carpenter or a shoemaker."

Mr. Baldwin, Chataqua Co., N. Y., lost fifty years ago, a very lousy child; his ate ten or twelve onions, and in two hours afterward the lice had disappeared. He has tried the same remedy many times since, with the same result in each case.

Poultry houses should be warm, light and well ventilated, and yet a majority of them are dark, close and uncomfortable as a natural consequence, the fowls found in them are generally weak, lousy and diseased.

In Raleigh, N. C., they have a nice way of eating philopenas. The girls hold the almonds in their teeth while the young gents bite them off.

OF VALUABLE

NORTH CAROLINA LANDS,

FOR SALE BY

GEORGE D. POOL.

Real Estate Agent,

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalisis and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness, it will compare favorably with any where and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the sociability of the people, in great fertility, and durability of soil, no section can equal it.

A railroad will soon be built from Weldon, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing, farming, and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A Steam Saw and Grist Mill in the town of Nixonton 8 miles from E. City. This Mill has a fine wharf and store attached on deep navigable water, the engine is 40 horse power, a dail in good order. It is one of the finest locations to be found any where for custom work, and for getting good saw logs easily and cheaply. Price $4,000 cash.

Adjoining the mill property is 40 acres of fine land on the River, with three houses. all for $1200. Near the same is a good two story dwelling and 13 acres of land for $2,000, and a good one story dwelling, with one acre of land for $300.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotauk county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church. school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Also one other tract in Pasquotank county, containing 116 acres, within one mile of the town with fine buildings, mostly cleared and in cultivation. Price $25 per acre, one half cash, balance in 12 months.

A valuable site for a hotel at Nag's Head, 40 miles from Elizabeth City, and 50 miles from Edenton. This is situated immediately on the Ocean, and is a famous Summer resort for invalids, and those seeking health, comfort, and amusements during the summer months. It is in direct communication by steamboats and railroad with all parts of North Carolina, Virginia, and the North; and is equal in natural advantages to Newport, or Cape May. Visitors flock to this famous summer resort by hundreds and thousands, and a large amount of money can be made by a hotel. A charter has been obtained from the Legislature of N. C. for a joint stock company to build the hotel. There is now an old hotel on the spot, which could be cheaply repaired and bought for $3,000. This hotel, though imperfectly kept, cleared the proprietor last season, over $3.000. For a man or a company, having some capital, this is one of the finest chances to make money at hotel keeping to be found anywhere. The early attention of the public is invited to this property.

A fine steam saw and grist mill at Hertford, the county seat of Perquimans County, N. C., 18 miles from Elizabeth City. This mill has a fifty horse power engine, now in good running, two pairs of best French burr stones, and two upright saws. The house has a brick basement and the building is large and in good order. There is one and a half acres of land belonging to this property, and a good two story dwelling, and other out-houses. The section of country adjacent abounds in the finest yellow pine, cypress, ash, poplar, and other valuable timber. This property originally cost $15,000, and is now offered at forced sale for the low price of $3.500, $7.00, cash, and the balance in six equal instalments, six months apart each with interest.

A fine farm and fishery in same county. The farm contains 400 acres of the finest land, lies immediately on Albemarle Sound where the water is 12 miles wide, and 18 to 20 feet deep, has got buildings, and fine neighborhood. The fishery is on the farm and goes with it. It has a new seine 2,500 yards long, and all the necessary boats, buildings, &c., (which cost over $15,000 two years ago.) The fishery alone, of a good season, will make from 5 to $10,000 profit to the owner. This property is offered at forced sale for the low price of $20,000, $7,000 cash, balance on easy times.

A store at South Mills, in Camden county, 20 miles from E. City, and 20 miles from Norfolk, lying on the canal where steamers pass daily. A fine chance for merchandize. Goods to the amt. of $50,000 per annum can be sold here, and at large profits. A splended stand for a country retail store. Price $2,500—one third cash, balance in one and two years.

A valuable tract of land in Camden county, at South Mills, on the Dismal Swamp Canal, lying on the canal for two miles, containing over 900 acres of land—two-thirds cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation, with good buildings, &c.; balance in valuable timber. Price $12,000, one-third cash, balance in one and two years, interest from January, 1871. This is a valuable farm for corn, wheat, and vegetables, and being midway between Elizabeth City and Norfolk, and located where steamers pass the door daily, is a desirable and cheap property.

A fine farm of 600 acres within six miles of E. City, one mile from navigable water, and the best cotton farm in the State. It is also well adapted to raising corn and wheat. This farm has a splended two-story dwelling upon it, large barn, 40 by 60 feet, a large number of outhouses, by splended trees and shrubbery, is in a strong Union neighborhood, and altogether the most desirable place in the county. A little over one-half of this land is cleared, and the balance is covered with the finest yellow pine, poplar, ash and other timber. Price $30 per acre—one-third cash, balance in one and two years with interest. Title reserved.

Sixteen houses and lots in Elizabeth City, with good dwellings, out-houses, &c. Prices and terms reasonable.

A valuable farm in Perquimans county, N. C. near navigable water. Has a fine dwelling-house with ten rooms, in splended order, with splended barns and stables—all in first rate order. The farm is very productive in corn, oats, wheat, cotton and clover. It is one of the finest farms in the State and is now in good cultivation, contains 585 acres of land, about three-fourths cleared and under cultivation. Price $10,000, one-third cash January 1, next balance in two equal annual instalments with interest at the rate of six per cent.

A farm of 370 acres 8 miles from town by water, and 12 miles by land, is offered for sale for $10,000 in easy payments. This tract of land lies immediately on the River which is 4 miles wide and washes the farm its whole length on one side, and a branch of the River one mile wide, binds it on one end. The land is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, peas, &c., lies high and dry, and is susceptible of the highest improvement. Fronting and looking over, as it does, two large sheets of navigable water, where steamers and sailing vessels are constantly passing, carrying freight and passengers to all parts of the country, its location and surroundings, are of the most fascinating and desirable character. There is a fishery on it ready for working a seine 2,500 yards long, and which commands a portion of both streams of water, and can be made immensely profitable. The price charged is low, and the purchase a very desirable one. The buildings consist of a good two-story dwelling and out-houses.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

A Farm of 200 acres within one mile of Elizabeth City, with good two story dwelling, large barn and stables, and all necessary outhouses, orchard of fine fruit trees, and a large number of ornamental trees and shrubbery around dwelling. This farm is on one of the most public roads in the County—is in a high state of cultivation—has fine and durable fences, &c. Altogether, it is the richest land and most desirable location, anywhere in the neighborhood of the town. Price $6000—one-half cash, balance in easy payments.

NATURAL FISH GUANO.

I have on hand a quantity of Pure FISH GUANO in its natural state which I will deliver on board of any vessel at Oregon Inlet, N. C., for $25 per ton: or I will deliver it at any landing for $30 per ton.

Considering that the Guano of Commerce costs from $50 to $60 per ton, and so much of it being adulterated, farmers can readily see that it is to their advantage to purchase the purer article I offer them at such reduced rates. Orders sent to me at Roanoke Island will receive prompt attention.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE LAND AND LUMBER COMPANY having a large amount of Real Estate of their own to dispose of, and their business having increased to such an extent, they think it prudent to decline acting further as Commission Agents for the sale of lands belonging to others. They will however be glad at all times to furnish every facility to parties coming to Elizabeth City with a desire to look at the country and make purchases if they find it to their interest to do so.

The following list of property, owned by the Company, is offered for sale on the most reasonable terms. Their object now is to acquire a larger monied capital for the purpose of further developing their unimproved lands and carrying out their original design of increasing the Commerce and General Trade of Elizabeth City.

As there are others in the Commission Business, parties are referred to their advertisement for further information.

ELIZABETH CITY.

The following desirable list of Properties in Elizabeth City are offered at very reduced prices for cash or on time payments at rates which make any of them excellent investments for capitalists. We feel confident that this City is destined to become a large place and property will advance rapidly. Emigration is now tending Southernward and the feeling is in universal favor toward Elizabeth City.

A large two-story dwelling known as the Parsonage, with fine double Piazza, front and back, large out kitchen, stables, carriage house, with 17 acres of ground well enclosed. This ground is all within the corporation of the City, and is well situated to lay out in building lots and make out of it ten fold the price asked for it.

A two-story dwelling containing ten rooms, 10,000 gallon cistern and all necessary out-houses, with large lot. Situated on Main Street. A Vacant Lot no better located and not so large as this was sold recently for $1600 cash.

A large brick store house and wharf situate on Water street; in E. City, comprising three lots with 400 feet of water front. permanently wharfed for the accommodation of large vessels. There is erected on these lots a large two-story brick building, 50 by 80 feet, well fitted up for a wholesale or retail trade at present occupied by the "Yankee Store."

A large wood store on west side of Water street 36 by 60, two stories high, being one of the best stands on Water street for merchandizing.

A House and Lot on Riverside Avenue. House 20ft front by 50 ft deep. Containing eight rooms with Pantry and Cellar, all well finished. modern style, and having all necessary out buildings. The lot contains a front of 400 ft, and would be a good location for a large shop or foundry as one whole side fronts on the water.

Also a large number of Wharf Lots, Mill Lots and Vacant Lots at very low prices, some of which are enumerated below. The Wharf Lots are 200ft deep and will be sold to any size desired along the River. Among them are some most eligible situations for Store Houses, Mills and Manufactories of any kind as there is a fine harbor immediately in front of them, having 30ft of water, sufficient for vessels of any capacity. Along Pennsylvania Avenue are offered some of the finest and choicest lots, for dwellings in town at prices varying according to location. This will be the finest street in town, is 80 feet wide, size of Lot 100ft front by 200ft deep. There are now a number of first class residences being erected on this street. Immediately in the vicinity of these Lots the Company have erected a large Planing Mill, Sash, Blind and Door Factory at a cost of near $20,000 and also their Saw Mill at a cost of near $15,000. That now is the proper time to invest in those Lots there can be no doubt, as they will double in value in a very short time. Lots not near so good as these, are now selling in other parts of the City at more than double the price asked for these.

VACANT LOTS.

Lots Nos. 150, 155, 158, 161, 163, 165, 167, 170. 172. 175, 178, 180, 182. 185, 187. 190' 193, 195, 198 and 200, situate on Pennsylvania avenue, in the new extension of Elizabeth City, all choice lots, intended for the better class of residences. They also offer a tract of three thousand acres in Lots to suit purchasers, near the Pasquotank River, ten miles from Elizabeth City and three miles from South Mills. This land is heavily set with wood and also has upon it a vast amount of saw timber, and has a most excellent soil. This is a fine location for a small Colony. There is now a Public Road running directly through it. This tract is offered at the low price of eight dollars per acre if sold to one party, or at only a fraction more if divided into small lots.

The Company will also sell their farm of 150 acres two miles from Elizabeth City. 125 acres cleared and under good cultivation, well fenced, having upon it two dwelling houses, one new and the necessary out buildinos wanted on a farm, and will be sold on very reasonable terms.

We have a finely timbered tract of land situated on the Albemarle Sound twenty miles from Elizabeth City, containing 124 acres. Good timber land bordering on the water is valuable both for wood as well as saw timber as water transportation affords a good margin for wood, say one dollar per cord. For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid Liver and Bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the System in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Say a dasting, able physiologist, there is scarcely an individual upon the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy elements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and slimy deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No system of Medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.
